CARAL DEPUTATION HEARD

Support of Cabinot Receive Repreand atlance of Advecates of Despening of Canal-Dr. Spreule's Vote of Lack of Confidence In the Goverament Defeated --- Hen. Mr. Fisher Talks Live Stock:

Ottown, Dec. 14.-At 12.30 yesterday morning the House of Commons divided on the amendment to the motion to so into supply, moved by Dr. Sproule (East Grey) that the argicultural and animal industries of Canada would be much benefitted by the establishment of abattoirs and a efficient system of cold storage, under Government supervision, and in the opinion of the House the Government ought to give immediate and effective consideration to the subject. It was farmers' day in the House resterday, and had not the vote been one of want of confidence on going into supply, it would probably have received the support of western members on the Liberal side. W. H. White (Alberta) said, but for that consider-iation, he would have supported Dr. Sproule' amendment.

The vote stood: Liberals, nays, 111; Conservatives, year, 66—the Govern-ment majority being 45. Arthur Gil-bert (Drummond and Arthabaska) voted with the Government.

Anticipating the arrival of a large number of western farmers the Conservative party has apparently taken this means of securing a tactical adon the motion to go into supply, Dr. Sproule (East Grey) brought up the question of the development of facilities for the export of agricultural products, with particular reference to the stock-raising industry, which, he said, was not keeping pace with the other farming industries. Dr. Sproule reviewed the findings of the Manitoba and Alberta Beef Commission, the Alberta Pork Commission, and Dr. Rutherford's report to the Government regarding the animal the animal industry. He said the the country were becoming less each year in Western Canada, for the simple reason that it was becoming unprofitable to raise them, because of lack of a steady market. All the reports agreed that this could be remedied by the Government taking up the question, establishing a system of abattoirs and cold storage, interest-ing themselves in the establishment of the dead mest trade. The sheep trade of Canada, he noted, had been affected seriously by the preferential tariff with England, and the removal of the duty on woollen goods. He said there were far fewer sheep in the country to-day than there were a few years ago.

He condemned the Government for having undertaken nothing to develop this industry, which, he said, had been brought to the attention of the Minister of Agriculture for years.

Concluding, Dr. Sproule moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply, calling for the establishment of a system of cold storage facilities and abattoirs, under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture.

Hon. Sydney Fisher agreed with the general tenor of Dr. Sproule's remarks, but accused him of partisanship. Dr. Sproule, he said, had emphasized the question of our exports, but he had forgotten the ever-increasing home market. Canada's population was growing much more rapidly in the cities than in the country, while the western farmers were hardly producing enough food products for their own use. It was unfortunate, but true, he said, that sheep were becoming fewer. One of the reasons was, he thought, was Canadian were unpatriotic enough to wear foreign wool. Wm. Thorburn (N. Lanark), W. H. Sharpe (Lisgar, Man.), Glen Camp-(Dauphin), E. W. Nesbitt (N in this audience.' With this sentence Sir Wilfrid Laurier concluded his remarks to a deputation of about 250 men, who crowded the Railway Commission room of the House yesterday morning, to urge upon the Government the immediate construction of a new Welland Canal, or the enlargement of the present canal to accommodate ships having a draught of 25 feet. The Welland Canal deputation has been a fixture of the session for a number of years past, but seldom has a more determined or more representative body of men met the Goverament to discuss any subject. Over a hundred members of Parliament accompanied them. Following closely Monday, who sought to have the Georgian Bay-Ottawa Canal project under way within the near future, the Govecommont made it clear that it was sympathetic towards both schemes. and it was practically admitted that, of the two, the Welland was the greater necessity. It is doubtful if Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues would care to disregard the representations of a body of men who spoke. as Dr. Reid (Prescott) said, for the whole of Canada—from the foothills of Alberta to the St. Lawrence.

Fred. F. Pardee (Sarnia) introduced the deputation, and he was followed by Lloyd Harris (Brantford). Dr. Reid and W. J. Gage. Mr. Gage made it clear at the outset that the sentiment of the deputation was not antagonistic to the Georgian Bay-Ottawa scheme; that, by the time the Wel-land Canal had been completed, Canadian trade would have developed to the point that the other work should be commenced, and it would be ready none too soon to accommo-

Settler's Wife, Near North Bay, Had Quarrel With Husband.

North Bay, Dec. 14.—A settler's cab-in on the south shore of Lake Nipissing was the scene of a shooting affray Sunday night, following a domes-tic quarrel, as the result of which the wife of James Fetterley lies dying. News of the tragedy reached North Bay yesterday in the form of a rumos of foul play, and Provincial Officer McRae and a press representative drove to the scene, forty miles, across the lake. The woman was found to be still alive, but a revolver bullet had entered beneath the jaw and passed completely through her head and brain, inflicting injuries which ordin-arily cause instant death. Fetterly's story, which is corrobor-ated by other inmates of the house, is to the effect that his wife quarrelled with a man who was helping him on the farm, causing him to leave, and later quarrelled with his step-son, and he remonstrated with her for driv-ing people away. Words followed, and she picked up the revolver and ran into the yard, where she shot herself. The woman is in a delicate condition, and has five little children. Domestic life has not been conducive to happiness, but there is no evidence that the tragedy means anything but suicide, despite rumors to the con-trary, and the dying woman asserts that she shot herself, and exonerates her husband. Her condition late yesterday afternoon did not show any change, and she states that it is her intention to get better, notwithstand-ing her terrible injury. The woman is able to talk and sit up in bed, showing vitality of a most remarkable

The execution was carried out very quietly. Only munisters and officials were present They were: Sheriff MacMartin, Jailer Grant Turnkey Lee, Guards G. T. Kerr an i Arch. The local press were denied admittance by the Sheriff, who likewise refused ad mittance to representatives of Turonto press. Local newspapermen wired the Government at Toronto for permission but they refused to interfere with the Sheriff. In this respect, Sheriff Mac-Martin has established a precedent, The execution was the quietest on record, and was seem'y in every way. The crowd outside on the street and to the side of the court house numbered less than a : core.

The execution took place about halfpastaeven, and no one but those direct y hangmen arrived at the jail at seven o'- directly charged with the ke

RPENT RESTFUL HIGHT.

Weedmark spent a restful night. He retired at his usual hour Tuesday evening, and slept well all night. He trake at five o clock, knelt by his prison oot for some time in prayer, as he had been accustomed to do of late, and then dresred with the help of the guard, He ate a good breakfast, in fact his appetite never fuiled bim during the whole time of his close to finement. The hangman entered his orll and pinioned his arms behind his back and took him to the corridor up above.

MET DEATH UNFLINCHINGLY The walk to the scaffold was then formed and was accomplished in a mom nt as the distance was only a few stops. Weedmark walked with un flinching steps and met his doom like a man. When he was placed on the trap, his feet were bound and the black cap pulled over his bead and the moose of the rope adjusted. When the cap son, and then set fire to his home. The was adjusted tears came to his eyes and with the clergy repeating the Lord's Prayer, to "Deliver us from

The black flag was immediately hoisted on the jail. Coroner Dwyre held the necessary inquest at half-past nine o'clock, and the usual verdict in such cases was returned. The body was then given over to the tister and ws taken away at once to Smiths Fails for inter-

CONTRITE AND PENITENT

The crime for which Weedmark paid the extreme penalty of the law was a most brutal one. It was premeditated. He openly bossted of his deed to his neighbors, and a the time of his trial told in the witness box the manner of the violent occurrence. His batted towards his dead vie, ift t his sontouce, was intense, but this gradually wore away as the influence of clergymen began to soften his nature. He was visited by all the Protestant | that it is the law, and that society must clergy, and their visits to him bore fruit. He became reconciled to his fate, contrite and penitent. He made his peace with his God and went to his and with hope of a heavenly hereafter. Weedmark was a model prisoner. Ho possessed phenomenal nerve.

Weedmark was visited some days ago by his sister and his four little girls, Kellock, now of Toronto.

No hope of clemency was given, as there were no externuating circumstances, and on Tuesday Mr. Foy was wired that the Cabinet would not interfere with the sentence of the court. Mr. Foy had a long conversation with Weedmark, who told his counsel that it was all right with his soul. Weedmark was sincere and profuse in his thanks to Mr. Foy for what he had done for him, and his only regret was that he could not reward him as he would liked to have done. Mr. Foy gave o' his best energy and talent in defence of the prisoner, and these Weedmark appreciated to the full When the parting came, both were affected, and Weedmark broke down and cried, and invoked the bleesings of God on his connect and his

IN MARKED CONTRAST.

The execution on Wednesday morning is in direct contrast to the publicity attending the two previous executions in Perth. In the olden days murderers were executed in public, and the sight was witnessed by hundreds from miles around. In the present case, Sheriff MacMartin was asked by several for admittance, but having made up his mind that it would be private, he refused to grant admittance. There were some who thought all they had to do was to ask for permission, and they would be allowed in. They soon learned of their mistake.

THREE EXECUTIONS HERE.

The Weedmark execution was the third in Perth. The first was the Balderson murderer Easby in 1829 . Easby killed his wife and family, all but one neighbors believed that they had been burned to death by accident, and it was not until the child began to prattle that Easby was suspected of murder. He was tried and confessed. His execution was carried out in the presence of a large crowd on the old court house steps. The body was afterwards given to medical students who tanned the skin of it and it is stated there are pieces of the tauned skin still in existeuce to day.

The second man to pay the penalty for murder was one Francis Bear, a French-Canadian, who killed his employer William Barrie, a farmer hving in Renfrew County. The hanging took place here, because Perth was the county town of Lanark and Renfrew before separation for municipal purposes. Bear was hanged on Saturday, May 17th, 1851, before a large crowd. SOCIETY MUST BE PROTECTED.

Interest in the Weedmark execution was not evidenced in Perth until the last day or so, when the hangmen came. Opinions on the question of hanging are divided. It must be remembered be protected. It is to be regretted that the execution happened here, but now that it is over, let it pass into history. Lanark county's record of respect for law is to be commended.
